Vietnam and the United States reach an agreement in the dispute resolution case concerning anti-dumping duties on pangasius and basa fish at the WTO

On 17 January 2025, in Washington, D.C., the Ministry of Industry and Trade, authorized by the Government of Vietnam, signed a bilateral agreement between the Government of the United States and the Government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam regarding anti-dumping duties on Vietnamese fish fillets with the United States Trade Representative (USTR). This agreement marks the resolution of the bilateral issues in dispute under case DS536 at the WTO.

Under this agreement, Vinh Hoan Corporation—the only enterprise eligible for tax exemption under U.S. regulations and the leading exporter of pangasius and basa fish from Vietnam—has been excluded from the application of anti-dumping duties on its exports of pangasius and basa fish to the United States.

Vietnam's Pangasius Industry Stays Strong, Poised to Reach New Milestones in 2025

...Overcoming environmental challenges, disease outbreaks, natural disasters—especially the severe impact of Typhoon Yagi (Storm No. 3), which caused significant damage to the industry and affected hundreds of thousands of farmers and fishers—along with rising shipping costs, increasing production expenses, and slow recovery in import prices, Vietnam's pangasius exports still successfully achieved the targets set at the beginning of 2024. Pangasius enterprises have made great efforts to innovate, enhance productivity and quality, and seize opportunities from rising demand in key markets such as the U.S., Brazil, Colombia, the Middle East, and CPTPP countries to offset declines in China. As a result, pangasius exports returned to the 2 billion USD mark in 2024, up 9% compared to 2023.

After a challenging 2023, Vietnam's pangasius exports began to recover and gradually grow in 2024. Looking ahead, 2025 brings promising prospects, ushering in a bright new era for Vietnam's seafood industry, including pangasius. With economic recovery continuing and demand in major markets rising sharply, key destinations such as China, the U.S., Brazil, Colombia, and CPTPP countries will remain vital drivers, ensuring Vietnam's pangasius secures its place on family dining tables worldwide.
